

Strangers Nowhere in the World?

Legacies of Early Modern Cosmopolitanism

The lectures are organized by the Frühneuzeit-Zentrum (FNZ) in cooperation with the Department of English and American Studies, the Department of Jewish Studies and Religious Studies, and the Department of German Studies. In addition, the Research Training Group "Minor Cosmopolitanisms" has opened its inaugural event to participants in the lecture series.

October 28, 2016 17:00 Building 12 Room "Obere Mensa"  Opening event of the DFG Research Training Group "Minor Cosmopolitanisms"	The Sephardi-Moorish Atlantic: Between Orientalism and Occidentalism Ella Shohat (New York University)  Radical Indigeneity in the Red Atlantic: The Trilateral Traffic of Ideas Robert Stam (New York University)
November 10, 2016 12:15 Building 19 Room 1.16	Liberal Cosmopolitanism: Free Trade, the Marketplace of Ideas, and Emerson's Relation to Germany Andrew Gross (University of Göttingen)
November 16, 2016 17:15 Building 19 Room 4.15	Conversion Questions: The Cosmopolitan, the National, and Constructions of the Converso in the Early American Republic MaryAnn Snyder-Körber (Freie Universität Berlin)
January 9, 2017 17:15 Building 19 Room 0.31	Nature, Climate, and the Political Ecology of Early Modern Cosmopolitanism Catrin Gersdorf (University of Würzburg)
January 25, 2017 17:15 Building 19 Room 4.15	Cosmopolitan Developmentalism and Other Entanglements in the Nineteenth-century Pacific Nicholas Miller (University of Göttingen)
February 8, 2017 17:15 Building 19 Room 4.15	Jewish Cosmopolitanisms: Transnational Visions and Radical Politics from Baruch Spinoza to Moses Hess Adam Sutcliffe (King's College London)

All lectures will take place on Campus Neues Palais.

For more information visit: www.uni-potsdam.de/fnz-cosmopolitanism

Or contact: niwaller@uni-potsdam.de or hspahn@uni-potsdam.de