

“Conflict resolution at the University of Potsdam”

Conflicts among people are normal - anyone can come into conflict at any time.

Counselors at the University of Potsdam

If you and another person cannot resolve a conflict on your own, then the faster you decide to ask for expert assistance or a neutral third party's help, the faster you can begin to search for a solution and thereby restore a good atmosphere for work and study. The counselors of the University of Potsdam can provide support in such situations.

We must nevertheless emphasize that the counselors are not mediators, and they do not offer therapeutic services. Due to their professional employment and affiliation with the University, however, they do have insight into many elements of the University of Potsdam. Furthermore, they have been trained, and continue to receive further training, on how to conduct counseling sessions.

If you need to speak with someone, our counselors will be pleased to assist you. Depending on your location, please contact:
