

Detlef F. Sprinz is a Senior Scientist with the Research Domain “Transdisciplinary Concepts & Methods” of PIK—Potsdam Institute for Climate Impact Research, Germany, and a Professor with the Faculty of Economic and Social Sciences at the University of Potsdam, Germany. Until August 2017, he coordinated a research group at the Käte Hamburger Kolleg, Centre for Global Cooperation Research, located at the University of Duisburg-Essen, Germany, on credible commitment to long-term policy. During the academic year 2017-18, Detlef Sprinz will serve as Rice Faculty Fellow & Visiting Professor in the European Studies Council, Whitney and Betty MacMillan Center for International and Area Studies, Yale University, New Haven, CT, USA, with secondary appointments at the Department of Political Science and the Yale School of Forestry & Environmental Studies.

He holds a Ph.D. and a M.A. in Political Science from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, MI, USA, as well as a M.A. (“Diplom-Volkswirt”) in Economics from the University of the Saarland, Saarbrücken, Germany.

His areas of research and publications encompass long-term policy, inter/national institutions & the evaluation of their performance, European & international environmental policy (and in particular climate policy), and modeling political decisions. He served as guest editor of the special issue of Global Environmental Politics on “Long-term Environmental Policy” (2009), co-editor of International Relations and Global Climate Change (The MIT Press, 2001), Models, Numbers, and Cases: Methods for Studying International Relations (The University of Michigan Press, 2004) - in addition to numerous journal articles. His co-edited book on Global Climate Change in an International Context will be published in 2018 by MIT Press.

Detlef Sprinz has taught international relations, international environmental policy, and social science methodology at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, MI, USA; Yale University, New Haven, CT, USA; the University of Oslo, Norway; the University of Potsdam, Germany; in the joint MA program in International Relations (MAIB) of the Free University Berlin, Humboldt University of Berlin, and the University of Potsdam; in the Master of Public Management (MPM) program of the University of Potsdam, as well at the University of Zurich, Switzerland.

During 2009-2012, Detlef Sprinz served as Chairman of the Scientific Committee of the European Environment Agency in Copenhagen, Denmark. He was a member of the International Advisory Committee of MILEN—Environmental Change and Sustainable Energy, University of Oslo, Norway (2010-2013), and a Senior Research Fellow with CICERO—Center for International Climate and Environmental Research—Oslo, Norway (2011-2013). Detlef Sprinz is a member of the European Academy, Bad Neuenahr-Ahrweiler, Germany; co-founded a major consultancy in the field of environmental policy; and provides consultancy services to companies, governments, international institutions, research institutes, and think tanks. He also serves on a range of advisory boards of national, European, and international projects, journals, and institutions. See www.sprinz.org for details.