Teaching Mobilities with Erasmus+

30 June 2020

The Erasmus+ program promotes teaching at European partner universities, with which the University of Potsdam has concluded an Interinstitutional Agreement. Through your stay, you should strengthen the European dimension of the host university, supplement your offer with that of the host university and impart your expertise to students who do not want to or can not study abroad. Of course, the Potsdam students will also benefit from their international experience. Teacher mobility should include the development of joint study programs of the two partner universities and the exchange of teaching content and methods. Her teaching period must be at least eight lessons per week. You can apply for a teaching position if you have a contractual relationship with the University of Potsdam.
