Cordial invitation to the talk by Dr. Roland Vogt

The evolving EU-China relationship: perspectives from Hong Kong

This talk sheds light on the recent transformation of the relationship between Europe and China. Going beyond disagreements over the war in Ukraine, it highlights the growing tensions over digital technologies and how these affect a relationship that was hitherto characterised by a high degree of pragmatism and mutual benefit. The talk discusses a conceptual approach which examines the generative roles of discourse and perceptions in international diplomacy.

Dr Roland Vogt is Associate Professor of European Studies and Head of the School of Modern Languages and Cultures at the University of Hong Kong. He is currently writing a book on how Europe is affected by the growing US-China rivalry on technology. He is the author of 'Personal Diplomacy in the EU: political leadership and critical junctures of European integration' (Routledge, 2017), 'European National Identities. Elements. Transitions. Conflicts' (ed. with W. Cristaudo and A. Leutzsch, Routledge, 2014) and 'Europe and China: strategic partners or rivals?' (Hong Kong University Press, 2012), as well as several articles in leading journals. He is the associate editor of the journal 'International Relations'.
