

RAILS Student Paper Award 2022

The Robotics & AI Law Society (RAILS) is pleased to announce the RAILS Student Paper Award 2022 for the best paper on "AI, Robotics and Law".

The prize is endowed with € 500.

We invite all students and PhD candidates in law to participate with unpublished papers that have been written prior to the completion of a PhD thesis and that deal methodically and thematically with the legal or ethical aspects of artificial intelligence and/or robotics. These may be current seminar papers or master's theses as well as essays written specifically for the award. Papers can be written in both German and English. Please submit your contribution in electronic form (as Word or pdf file) at info@ai-laws.org. The size is limited to 30 pages (not including cover page and indexes); please use for the text font size 12pt and line spacing 1.5, and for the footnotes font size 10pt and line spacing 1.

The deadline for submissions is November 15, 2022.
