

Motivation Letter (for the Master's Degree Program in Economic Policy and Quantitative Methods) – Requirements:

To apply for the Master in Economic Policy and Quantitative Methods, we expect you to submit a letter of motivation. The requirements for this letter are as follows:

- Language of the Motivation Letter: English
- Maximum length: Two standard pages (i.e. a maximum of 3,600 characters including spaces per page)
- The quality of your motivation letter counts 25% of your total point value. Other factors that determine your total point value: 50% average grade or current average grade, 25% average grade in quantitative subjects (statistics, econometrics and mathematics)
- Content: Your motivation letter should answer the following questions:
  1. Why do you want to study Economic Policy and Quantitative Methods?
  2. What prior knowledge (academic or practical experience) and competences do you possess that are relevant to the Master's degree program in Economic Policy and Quantitative Methods?
  3. What is the role of evidence-based economic policy in society today?