Submit deposit copies at the University Library

Submitting Deposit Copies

The doctoral and postdoctoral regulations of the faculties at the University of Potsdam require the publication of the academic thesis and, where applicable, the submission of deposit copies.

Online or print publication?

The academic thesis may be published online on the University's publication server or submitted in printed form. The number and format of the legal deposit copies depend on the requirements of the relevant doctoral regulations of the faculty awarding the degree and the chosen method of publication.

You can find all the latest information on publication and submission of your thesis on our website:

In the case of a cumulative thesis, the copyright implications of secondary publication must be clarified. You can find further information on our website:

Online publication

For online publication, the digital version must be submitted to the Publish.UP publication server.

When submitting your thesis, please follow the instructions from the checklist:

Brief summary of the key points:

1. Submit your work under "Submit."
2. When doing so, upload both the PDF version and the file(s) in their original document format (Word, LaTeX, etc.).
3. After a processing period of up to 14 days, you will receive the final version with editorial information. Use only this version to print the deposit copies, if necessary.

Print publication

For print publication, the printed copies must be submitted to the University Library.

When submitting your application, please follow the instructions from the checklist:

Brief summary of the key points:

1. Submit your thesis using the bibliographic submission form.
2. Prepare the approved version according to the faculty's guidelines and, if necessary, obtain the publication authorization/approval certificate.
3. Use only this version to print the deposit copies.
