

Land Rights in a Changing Climate Workshop I University of Tromsø, 27 January 2020

Contact: m.blomfield@sheffield.ac.uk

Fabian Schuppert (University of Potsdam), 'Land-based adaptation measures, the claims of vulnerable and disadvantaged communities, and the prospects of a just transition'

Kerstin Reibold (Arctic University of Norway, Tromsø), 'Indigenous land rights under climate change'

Matthew Coffay (University of Bergen), 'Sustainability in Norwegian agriculture: The normative model of sustainable development and sustainability transition studies'

Megan Blomfield (University of Sheffield), 'Land as a global commons?'

Land Rights in a Changing Climate Workshop II University of Oslo, 30-31 January 2020

Contact: m.blomfield@sheffield.ac.uk

Megan Blomfield (University of Sheffield), ‘Land as a global commons?’

Matthew Coffay (University of Bergen), ‘Sustainability in Norwegian agriculture: The normative model of sustainable development and sustainability transition studies’

Clare Heyward (Arctic University of Norway, Tromsø) & Dominic Lenzi (Mercator Research Institute on Global Commons and Climate Change), ‘Global sinks and local carbon rights: Improving arguments for special claims’

Alejandra Mancilla (University of Oslo), ‘Climate change, land change, and the “problem of fit”: the case of Antarctica’

Kerstin Reibold (Arctic University of Norway, Tromsø), ‘Indigenous land rights under climate change’

BA The British Academy

LEVERHULME
TRUST

 Department for Business, Energy
& Industrial Strategy